LES JENSEN's book represents a new age of power emanating from citizens acting like kings, but not like one with dominion over others; rather, as a citizen "acting like a king" in their own personal kingdom, in their own personal story, in their own personal and powerful potential!

As a "king," you'll learn to understand how powerful it is to free yourself from the bondages of emotional posturing, judgment, and stagnant beliefs. Like the canvas to a painter, to start with something fresh, something clean, is priceless. How can you bring about a new creation if there's already a tarnish on the canvas? How can you bring a new possibility—a miracle perhaps—into creation if the canvas itself is tainted? If your own personal energy persona is diluted and polluted by the past, how can you create something pure? The purity of your own personal energy decides what kind of a range you have in the creative process. If you're holding on to large aspects of your past, then the majority of your own personal energy will perpetuate your experience of the past.

To want to be king of your own personal kingdom is the journey itself. There is no greed involved in it. It is the process of awakening itself. Consciousness is the creative substance of the universe, and you are that consciousness now. There is no end to your creative presence, for the process is always on. It continually repeats itself. You cannot deplete the infinite field of possibilities by fulfilling your own inspiration. You don't deplete the potential of the universe by claiming and honoring your own inspiration. The creative process of the universe never ends, and you can draw from it all you want, for it is always ready to create again.

By fulfilling every single dream you've ever had does not remove a single option, a single choice, a single possibility from your future. Jensen's Citizen King: The New Age of Power demonstrates that when you've learned to trust that, and know that, and own that as the creative presence that you are, then you can dream big and not flinch. You can experience life without any guilt or hesitation. To understand that you are always the creator is to claim your kingdom...to become a true Citizen King!

LES JENSEN

Author, radio host, speaker, energy master and visionary, Les was born into a Mormon household in Brigham City, Utah, the last of seven children. This laissez faire situation allowed him significant freedom to explore his strong sense of independence and to indulge his curiosity about the world around him, how it worked, and the people within it. His technical skills eventually led to a very successful career in engineering in the broadcast industry, and it was here that he experienced a “spiritual awakening.” He hadn’t had a spiritual notion of himself before that, but decades of studying the nature of frequency, energy and very high levels of power in television had prepared him for working with the energy of human consciousness.

And then his life-path changed. Everything Les had learned about energy would later show up in many ways, including his writings. His language was that of karma, emotions, mental stigmas, energy bodies, and levels of consciousness (and the power behind them). Meanwhile, years before becoming an author, Les experienced this energy in the form of a life-changing moment when he “broke himself wide open.” He felt so much energy pouring out of his personal persona that he went inside his inner self and started cleaning up whatever he found that didn’t serve his well-being.

More or less naturally, such life-altering changes led to the creation of New Human Living in 2009, a global platform to assist humanity in discovering its own truth. Without any bias towards a religious group or existing establishment, Les kept the focus of all of his material on the personal empowerment of the individual, where the guidance of the best life path came from each individual’s heart. Based on the notion that the Kingdom of Heaven is within each one of us now and always, and by keeping the focus on the purity of the individual’s energy, Les’ material transcends the inherent cultural bias of those existing establishments’ beliefs.

His e-book, Personal Power Fundamentals, a review of the fundamental nature of our own personal power, including how to overcome one’s karmic propensities, appeared in 2013, followed by the publication of Forgiven Sinner: God’s Last Savior in 2018, which challenges humanity to confront its role in the salvation of humanity.

Les makes his home in Denver, where he has worked in the broadcast television market for 30 years and received two Emmy nominations. He enjoys hiking, exploring the Rocky Mountains on his motorcycle, and engaging others in dialogue about the philosophy of human nature. He also designs electronics, does welding and metal sand-casting, and dabbles in a little computer programming as well. ASK LES

- ◆ In the book you use the term “persona.” What does that term mean to you?
- ◆ What are some of the more common ways we tend to shut down our own power without even knowing it?
- ◆ How can forgiveness and compassion be so directly related to our ability, or inability, to express ourselves in a powerful way?
- ◆ What role do our dreams play in our ability to fulfill our life purpose?
- ◆ In the book you talk about sovereignty and dominion. How does that relate to our life purpose?
- ◆ You talk about the relationship between the ego and the heart and soul, and the importance of “healing” that relationship. Can you elaborate on why that is so important?
- ◆ In the book you talk about self-love and unconditional love. How does our relationship with love relate to our personal power?
- ◆ As a broadcast television engineer who has generated very high-energy systems for decades, what role does purity play in the realm of our own personal energy?
- ◆ You talk about how the storyline of the collective consciousness is changing. Why is it changing and where are we going, as a collective, with this change?
- ◆ In the book you take us through our own family dynamics. What does the family we are raised in have to do with our ability, or inability, to be powerful?
- ◆ What is the role of our inspiration and imagination when it comes to honing our personal power?

PRAISE FOR LES

“Citizen King is a Chicken Soup, The Secret, Three Feet from Gold, and Outwitting the Devil all rolled into one book a reader “must have.” Some books are for the head. Some are for the heart. Others are for entertainment. And a few, a very few, pierce the soul. I recommend that all of my readers, and famous publication fans, read Les Jensen’s Citizen King as a cell phone recharge to full bars for your spirit and soul. While reading this book, you will experience the pure joy that your spirit desires and deserves!”

—Benny Dohrmann, Chairman, CEO Space International

“Les Jensen's zeal and excitement fill these pages with empowerment. In his new book, Citizen King: The New Age of Power, you'll discover amazing strategies for dissolving boundaries blocking your power. You'll learn about the amazing power of acceptance in dispelling negative tendencies. With the help of this book, you'll be able to find that deep state of joy and satisfaction. Please don't miss this amazing book!”

—Peter Ragnar, author of Finding Heart: How to Live with Courage in a Confusing World

“This wonderful book has clarified many complex areas for me. The book provides foundational knowledge about the true nature of who we really are and how we are to navigate our way through the twists and turns of being human. Les Jensen is the teacher of our times, especially in these times of constant Shifting into a new way of being.”

—Vanita Lakhwala

“This book gave me a step-by-step method by which to gain personal power. It is the first book of this type that got out of the etherical realm and gave nuts and bolts. I would recommend this book to everyone, but especially anyone who is stuck and needs to find a path forward. I never even knew that personal power was something I needed. Turns out, it can dramatically change every aspect of your life.”

—John Hewett

“Personal sovereignty, agency, and personal power are qualities that so many millions of us have lost over the course of our lives. But because every single one of us was born with these qualities, we have access to them at any time. It is only that we need to unlearn certain things that are perpetuated in our society, and we need to learn other things that can help us amplify our own unique geniuses. Every single one of us has within us a wellspring of power, and when more and more of us move into an expression of our lives that is authentically us, we will begin to co-create the more beautiful world we all know in our hearts is possible. Thankfully, Les Jensen's book Citizen King came into my life at just the right moment and was a key component in my decision to create ‘Revolutionary Wellness Talk Radio.’ There is such a profound clarity to his message, and I wholeheartedly recommend it to anyone interested in accessing and expressing his or her own personal power and healing dysfunctional egoic tendencies.”
